The Portfolio Basics

Diversification...

is the process of investing in different types of investments such as cash, bonds, equities, and alternatives. You have heard the motto: “Don’t put all your eggs in one basket.” The proper mix and investments in your portfolio depends on your risk tolerance, investment goals, and time horizon for each objective. Again, everybody is different! Your portfolio and investments should be treated differently also!

For illustration purposes only - does not represent the allocation of any particular model.

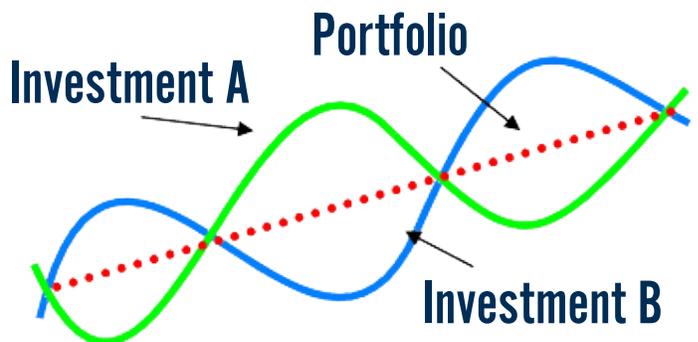

This hypothetical is used for illustration purposes, and assumes a straight-line return over the defined period. Actual results would vary. Results are not guaranteed and an investor could lose a portion or all of their money.

The Power of Diversification...

can be explained by the chart to the side. If a person would have invested $10,000 in a fixed investment over 25 years returning 7% annually, they would have accumulated $54,274. If a 2nd person would have invested $2,000 in each of 5 investments that annually returned 12%, 10%, 6%, 0% and one investment that lost all $2,000, who would be better off at the end of 25 years? The diversified account would have accumulated $66,254. That is nearly $12,000 more in the diversified portfolio.

Taking it to the Next Level

Enhanced diversification comes with using investments that are non-correlated or less correlated to one another. In other words, using investments that work differently in different types of market conditions. This may give you a better chance to make money in rising or declining markets and potentially protect assets during market declines.

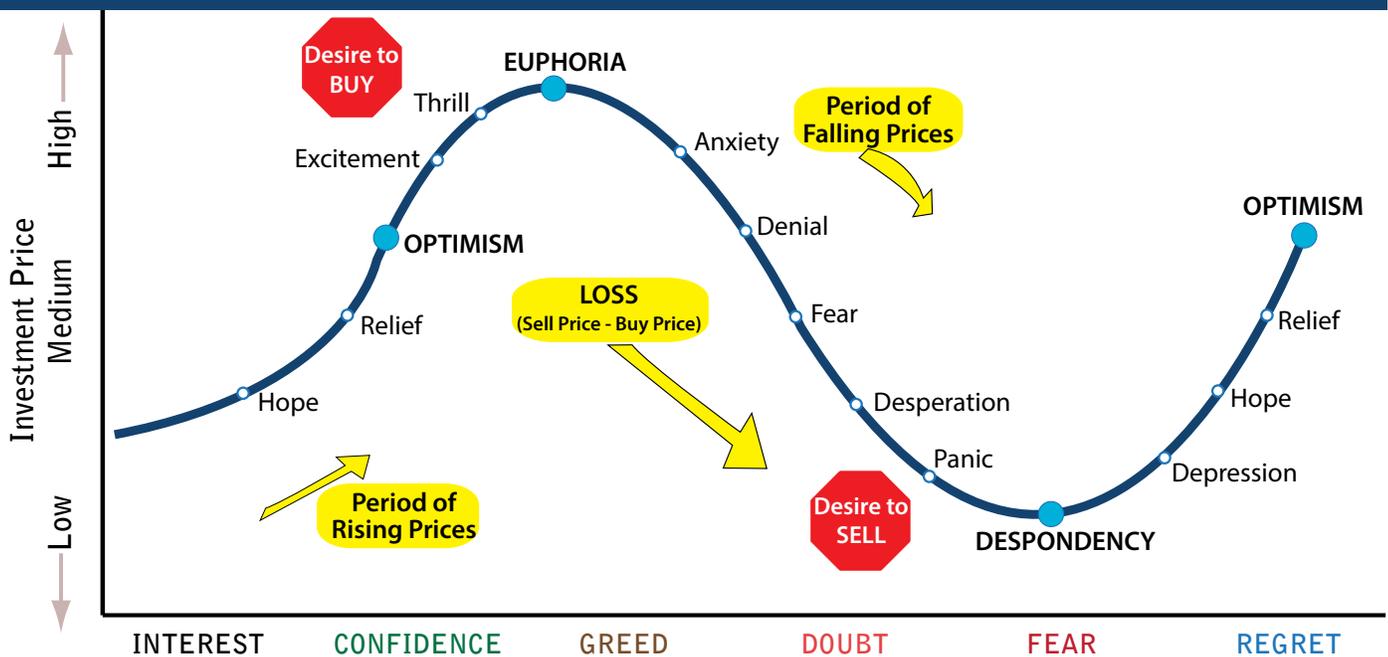

Disciplined Investing

It is Time in the Market, Not Market Timing

Human emotions have the ability to affect clients investing. It is common for investors confidence to grow as your investments grow. Conversely, as markets lose value, confidence decreases. Clients tend to go to the sidelines at the wrong time.

Disciplined investing does not adhere to the emotions of investing such as greed, fear, or chasing returns. Along with keeping your account diversified, using a disciplined long-term investment approach is key to obtaining consistent and sound results.

Self-Directed Strategies

How It Works

Your available investment holdings inside your company's retirement plan will determine the type of investments in your account. Our team researches these options and determines what to use for your portfolio needs and goals. We want to keep you invested in the best portfolio possible under your investment objective. We offer two separate investment strategies; "Active" and "Passive," to help you reach your goals.

"Active" Strategy

Our signature Active Strategy is built for clients that want a professional investment management team monitoring their retirement account daily as well as rebalancing when necessary and evaluating all investments inside their plan quarterly or as needed. This allows your portfolio to be kept in line with the best investments and within your goals on a timely basis.

"Passive" Strategy

Our Passive Strategy is an inexpensive professionally managed accounts strategy for clients who believe account management can be done less actively. Perhaps it's for new lower asset accounts. Our Passive Strategy evaluates your investment options on an annual basis and may rebalance it quarterly if needed.

Variations Among Accounts

Each Designs investment model is merely a guideline, and there may be variance between investment holdings, and therefore returns, in any particular account versus the model allocation. In some instances, these differences may be material. Additionally, there may be some differing holdings among customers investing in the same investment model portfolio. Some of these differing holdings are the result of limited investment options, such as would be the case in self-directed retirement accounts, and/or managed variable annuity accounts. Additional variances could arise due to such things as, without limitation:

- programmed reallocations by an issuer, pursuant to particular product terms and conditions
- special reallocation requests by the client
- timing issues, e.g. investors purchase a fund that subsequently is no longer available for new purchasers, so later investors invest in a

- comparable (though not identical) investment size of an investment account
- additional strategic options selected by a client, e.g. a client uses the invest over time option or an alternative investment rider option
- additional contributions to an account, or one-time or systematic withdrawals from an account
- the fact that transactional charges may make a reallocation disadvantageous to a particular client, or due to the investment strategy which the client has selected
- tax implications applicable to an individual investment or account
- opening of new investments
- closing of investments to new investors
- minimum investment amounts applicable to investments

Client Choices Influencing Returns in the Account

Please note that your choices as a client may influence the returns in your account, and may not mirror returns of holdings of other investors in the same model portfolio. Some of your choices that may affect the account include:

- Making additional contributions to your account
- Making withdrawals from your account
- Putting special restrictions on your account, either to hold a particular security, to avoid a particular security, to hold additional cash, etc.
- Selecting an add-on strategy such as the Invest Over Time option or selecting an Alternative Investment Rider
